

Your Cocktail Activity Pack

History

Culture

Blame

Family

Football

Migration

Pain

Poverty

Religion

Shame

Identity

History

Things that have happened in the past

Blame

Saying whose fault it is

Pain

Things that hurt us - either our bodies or our feelings

Football

2 football teams - rivalry or enemies? Reason or excuse?

Religion

2 religions, 2 groups, 1 big divide

Shame

Feeling bad about something because we know it's not right

Family

Does family affect what we think?

Identity

Who we think we are and how we tell others about it

Migration

Moving from one country to another - e.g. Ireland to Scotland

Poverty

Does it make this problem worse?

Religion

I don't wear my faith on my sleeve.

I'm not out to convert anybody, that's my vibe.

*My children will have no idea,
I'll make sure o' that.*

I'm definitely neither

*I was aware of the differences.
Always.*

*I just love and God's about love.
God isnae about religion.*

*My Dad was Catholic and my Mum Protestant.
So I knew, I knew all about it. Right from forever.*

Identity

Football

Guess Who

Lorenzo
Amoruso

Protestant

Joined Rangers and won many trophies
there

Jock Stein

Joined Celtic won many trophies there

Stays In The Grounds 1:

*Him and his pals call each other Tims and Huns you know? There's always that jokey banter.
But how do you know what's jokey banter and what's actually insulting one another?*

Stays In The Grounds 2:

*Aye it's only football
Just a wee banter, a bit of rivalry It's a part o' the game and just harmless fun*

Stays In The Grounds 3:

Old Firm match: Boy, 10, injured by bottle thrown at minibus on busy main road

A 10-year-old Rangers fan has recalled getting hit in the face by a bottle on the way to Sunday's Old Firm game. Kieran Duffy, from Springboig, Glasgow, said he saw the bottle come flying towards him from the corner of his eye. The 10-year-old was in a minibus of Rangers fans sitting in traffic at Cathcart Road, when a group of Celtic fans surrounded the bus and hurled abuse at the occupants. Mr Duffy said the fans passed the bus and a couple of them decided to attack the driver. The door was opened and a bottle was thrown.

Kieran, who required stitches, said: "I swallowed a tooth and one of them was cracked in two."

Stays In The Grounds 4:

Mark Scott was killed on a Saturday afternoon on his way home from a football match between Celtic and Partick Thistle in Glasgow's East End.

Mark was a 16-year-old boy walking with 2 friends on a busy street when he was murdered in an attack by a stranger. Mark never saw his killer. Mark's pals told the court that they were heading home after watching Celtic beat Partick Thistle 2-1. They were walking along London Road towards the city centre to get a train.

His friend told Iain Bonomy QC, prosecuting, that a man standing with a group of people outside a pub near Bridgeton Cross spat beer at them. The beer hit Mark and Iain, but none of them reacted to it. They just kept walking forwards. James said he then heard footsteps running up from behind them and then Mark was stabbed out of nowhere.

Evidence

*I remember thinking
'all this hate is for me'.
That I was hated*

His name's Mulherne?
You'll no be seeing him again

They have banter about the football

Won't catch me wearing Royal Blue

Ma man's a Rangers fan

Celtic has Irish roots

Catholics and Protestant have some different beliefs

Didn't realise yer son was marrying a Pape

They got married in a Chapel and my Grandfather said 'I'm not going then.'

Not letting him be a Rangers ball boy because you're Catholic

Playing drums louder at a Catholic Church

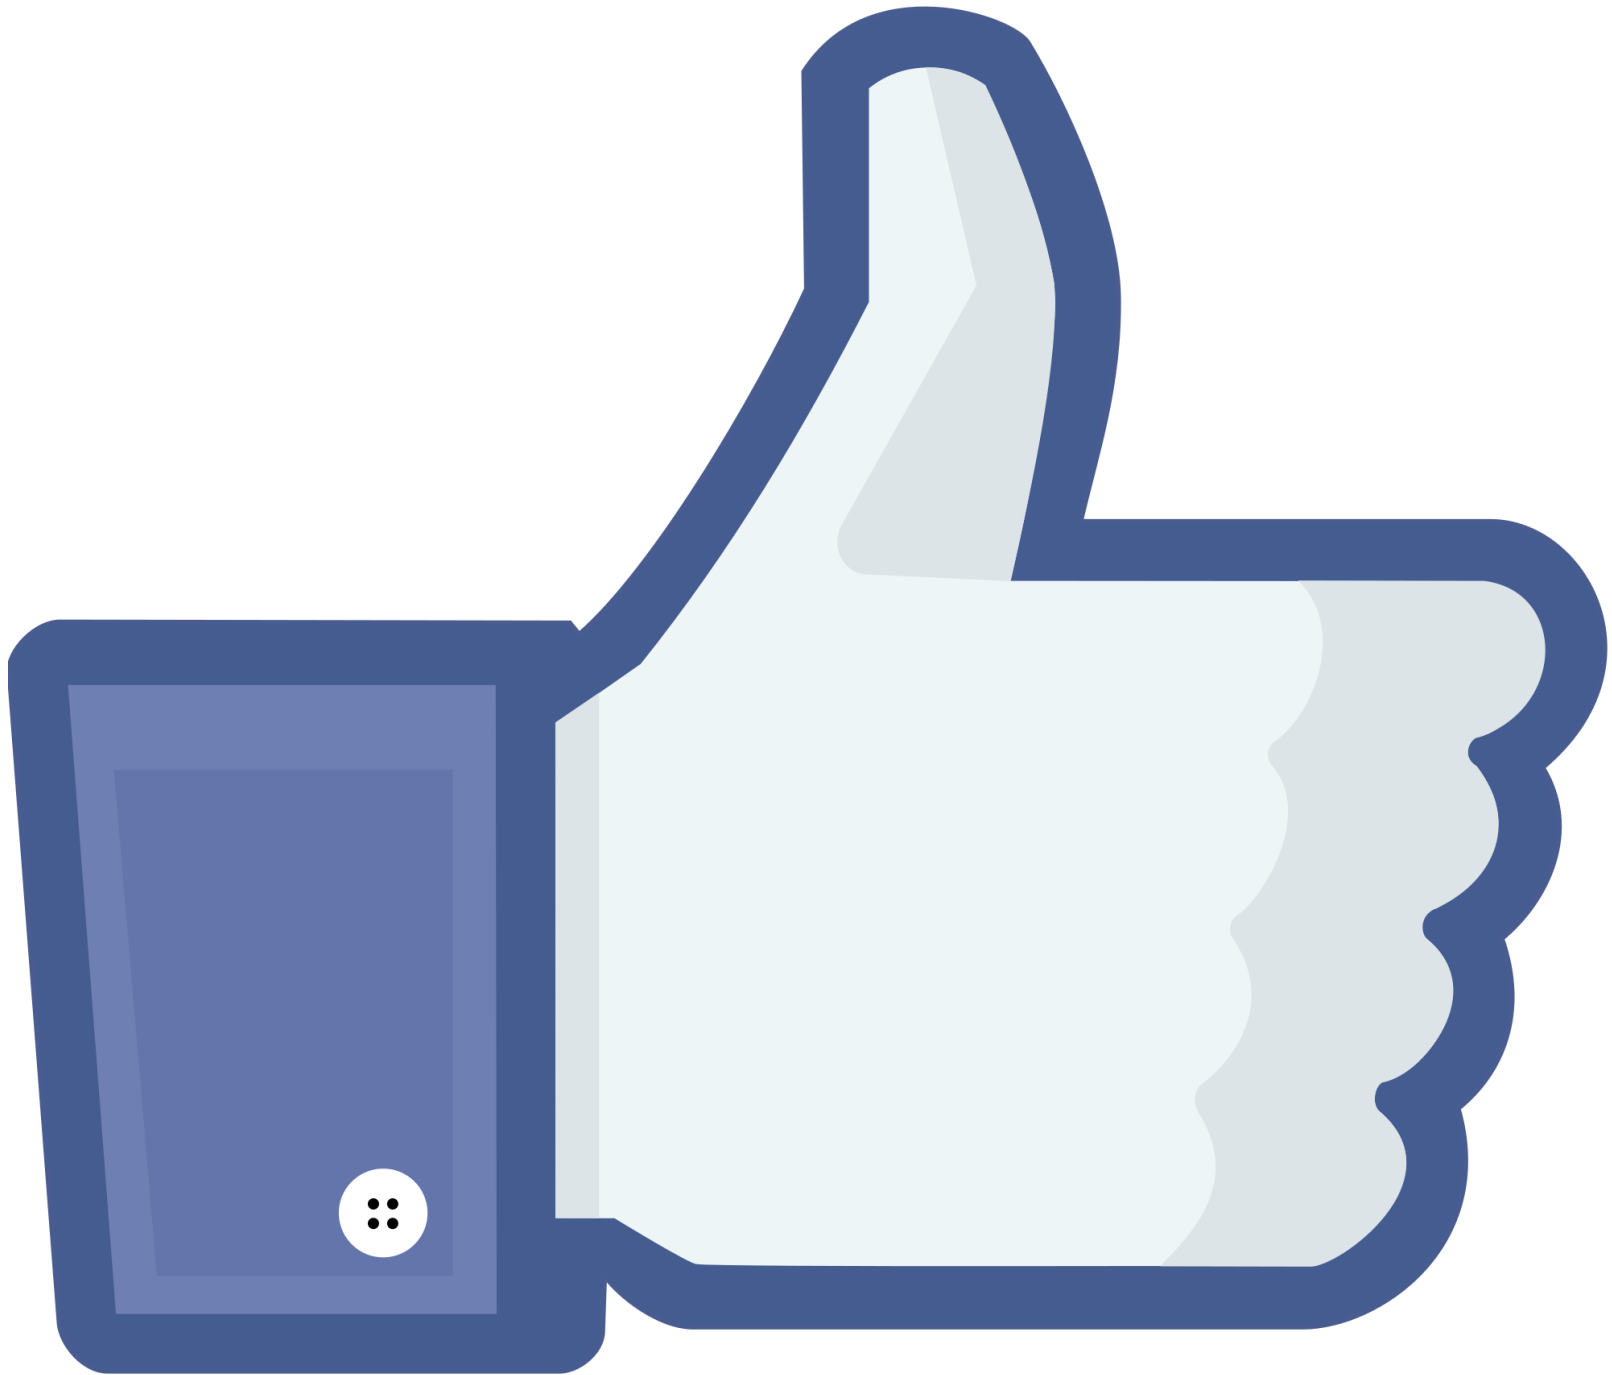

They call each other Tims and Huns

Having a parade

Making the photocopier code 1690

“My mum’s from [REDACTED] and she met my father because they both [REDACTED] and he is [REDACTED], mostly [REDACTED] and my Grandfather wasn’t too impressed at all. I presume they knew when they met. I don’t think they thought anything of it. They just fell in love with each other and that was that, kinda thing”.

'Cocktail Quotes'

1

"They'd call you Fenian but Fenians were Catholics and Protestants!"
(Jane)

2

"All this hate was for me, that I was hated" (Alan)

3

"My mum's from the Protestant side, and she met my father because they both worked in Littlewoods and he is of Italian descent, mostly Catholic and my Grandfather wasn't too impressed at all. I presume they knew when they met. I don't think they thought anything of it. They just fell in love with each other and that was that, kinda thing".